

2022-2023 CACREP Vital Statistics

Department of Counseling
San Francisco State University
Submitted December 2023

This 2022-2023 CACREP Vital Statistics Report was developed to provide prospective students, current students, faculty, our community partners, the university community, and CACREP with information regarding our students including the numbers of graduating students, time to graduation, currently enrolled students. This report includes data for 2022-2023. We have included data regarding the numbers of students enrolled in each specialization and the numbers who have also chosen to add an additional area of expertise (Emphasis). Each specialization requires 60 units including core foundation courses, specialization courses, practicum and internship courses as well as a minimum of two years of supervised internship. Students who choose to complete an Emphasis in addition to their Specialization are required to complete the courses associated with that added area of expertise (Emphasis) in addition to supervised internship hours related to the Emphasis.

The data provided in this report were acquired through various sources including San Francisco State University Office of Institutional Research, the Department of Counseling Advisee Database, the Board of Behavioral Sciences (California licensing board for LMFT and LPCC), and the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (PPSC). In addition, in June 2023 and September 2023, a survey was sent to students who graduated in Spring of 2023 to determine their employment status and setting. A total of 19 responses were received the June survey, five additional responses were received from the September survey. The data from these sources is informative yet limited.
